An Introduction to Galway City

Galway City

Galway City is located in the West of Ireland, on the shores of Galway Bay and within sight of the Atlantic Ocean. The city is surrounded by the phenomenal landscape of Connemara to the west and Lough Corrib to the north. It is bisected by the river Corrib, whose stony bed (Gaill Aimh) gave the city its name, and the city centre is interwoven with canals and mill races which have their origins in the commercial heritage of earlier centuries.

Known the world over for its friendly people, charming streets, arts, culture and heritage, Galway is a city like no other.

Galway is a growing city. The population of the city has grown from 47,000 in 1986 to currently stand at 75,529 and the city has previously had the title of the fastest growing city in Europe. This growth not only reflects a national and international trend of increased urbanisation but more specifically reflects the attractiveness of Galway as a city in which to study, to work, to visit and to live. There are a further 62,238 people who live within 30 minutes drive of the city centre.

Galway is a young and vibrant city. There are over 40,000 pupils and students in primary, secondary, further and third-level schools and colleges across Galway, including over 27,000 students enrolled in the National University of Ireland, the Galway Mayo Institute of Technology and the Galway Technical Institute. According to Census 2011, Galway's population of 20 to 24 year olds is more than twice the national average. Education and learning is part of the past, the present and the future of the city.

Galway is a cultural, creative city. The arts flourish in Galway City, with its bohemian and European twist, involving the community and encouraging creativity. The city has long been considered a centre of cultural excellence and its reputation in Ireland and overseas has been enhanced by the presence of world leaders in the arts, like Druid Theatre Company and Galway International Arts Festival. The economic importance of the creative sector to Galway City is significant and this is further strengthened by the city's designation as a UNESCO City of Film. Galway City's bid to become the European Capital of Culture 2020 shows a commitment to the arts and culture from all agencies in the city.

Galway is a multi-cultural city. Galway is recognised internationally as a city which celebrates diversity. According to Census 2011 data, Galway City is the most multi-cultural location in Ireland with 19.4% of its residents recorded as non-Irish, compared to a national average of 12%. It is also Ireland's only bilingual city with a strong history and tradition of the Irish language.

Galway is a historic city. Originally a small O'Flaherty village in the Middle Ages, the city is famously known as the "City of the Tribes" after the fourteen "Tribes" (merchant families) who led the city in its Hiberno-Norman period. Galway City is a platform of history and has maintained many relics from its medieval past, including cobbled streets, laneways, hidden archways and old medieval walls.

Galway, a city moving forward

As the largest urban centre in the West, Galway City is a key driver of economic development in the region and makes a significant contribution to GDP growth. Galway is home to nine of the top ten medtech companies in the world and has a strong, emerging ICT cluster. The city thrives on its entrepreneurial spirit and diversity of culture. It is a centre of knowledge and a source of growth and innovation. The city also engenders a huge sense of pride of place in its inhabitants. Its human scale, liveability, conviviality of neighbourhoods, geographical embeddedness and historical character constitute an ideal of sustainable urbanism.

In 2014, Galway city was named the Best Overall MicroCity in Europe by fDi magazine, in recognition of its economic potential and business friendliness. In 2013, Galway City was awarded the Great Town of the Year Award by the Academy of Urbanism in the UK and, in 2014, the city received a Purple Flag for its safe and vibrant night-time economy. In 2015, Galway was named the 'Friendliest City in the World' by US magazine Travel and Leisure and was chosen as one of the pilot cities for the EU's Culture21 project. Galway is a designated UNESCO City of Film, one of only five cities worldwide to hold this prestigious title, and is a member of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network.

To continue to evolve, Galway City must respond to a rapidly changing world. The existing and emerging strengths of Galway must be capitalised upon to secure the city's competitiveness. Digital technologies must be embraced as international and EU emphasis moves onto smart, sustainable cities. Citizen engagement through collaboration, dialogue and participation in local government must be encouraged and all aspects of diversity, cultural identity and expression must be valued. The threats faced by all urban areas, of unemployment, segregation and poverty, must be turned into positive challenges as Galway takes its place as a key driver of economic, social and community development in Europe and beyond.

A clear, succinct and ambitious vision for Galway City has recently emerged. This vision, based on the Europe 2020 concepts of smart growth, sustainable growth and inclusive growth, has been driven by Galway City Council through the development of a coherent policy framework. A suite of plans and strategies have been prepared, or are in preparation, to guide this vision for Galway City over the next few years. These are set out in Appendix II and are consistent with the Galway City Development Plan. These Galway City Council plans and strategies, when combined with other locally produced policy documents, present an ambitious, yet achievable, vision for Galway City (Figure 1).

Consultation processes have played a major role in the development of the LECP and the other strategy documents. There has always been evidence of strong collaboration across agencies, social partners and the local development and community development sectors in Galway City. This LECP represents a strengthening of these collaborations and will allow for shared ownership, policy consistency and, importantly, the achievement of common goals for the good of the city.

The LECP represents a shared plan for Galway City and it will play an important role in shaping Galway as a world-class city of creativity, investment and opportunity, a city that offers the best conditions to its people and a superior quality of life. There is a commitment from all partners that this plan will be a living document that will allow for ongoing reflection, review and monitoring, recognising the paramount need for ongoing meaningful consultation at a grassroots level. A model of good practice will be developed over the lifetime of the plan to ensure interagency collaboration, connectivity and synergy between all Galway City strategies and action plans.

Socio Economic Analysis of Galway City

The Local Economic and Community Plan (LECP) is based on a comprehensive socio-economic evidence base, providing a sound basis for decision making and ensuring the approach taken is robust, credible and defensible.

In 2015, The Whitaker Institute in NUI Galway carried out a baseline study of Galway City and County, on behalf of Galway City Council and Galway County Council, using a full range of socio-economic performance indicators and data from a range of sources (CSO, GeoDirectory, POWSCAR, POBAL Deprivation Index and more). The key findings of this baseline study are outlined below and additional information is available on www.galwaydashboard.ie. Data compiled by the Borders, Midland and Western Regional Assembly for the Galway Gateway Report (2013) was also considered.

For the purposes of the baseline study, the municipal district of Galway City was divided into three areas, Galway West, Galway East and Galway Central, using the 22 local electoral divisions (ED), as illustrated in Figure 2.

Population

The most recent Census data shows that Galway City had a population of 75,529 in 2011, comprising 36,514 males and 39,015 females. 63,036 of these were aged 15 years and over, with 6,377 retired. Galway East had the largest population of the three areas, with Galway Central having the least amount of residents. The fastest growing EDs in the city were Ballybane (24.6%) and Ballybrit (24%). Overall, the population of Galway City increased by 4.3% between 2006 and 2011.

Galway City has a young, diverse population

Diversity

Galway City has the most ethnically diverse population in the country, with 19.4% of its residents recorded as having a non-Irish nationality, compared to the national average of 12%. A number of EDs show even higher proportions of non-Irish nationals, such as Castlegar (31.7%), Ballybane (27.7%) and Ballybrit (24.4%). Fewer than half of the people in Galway city were born in County Galway, while one in four residents were born outside the State. Polish (4,096 persons) are the largest group, followed by UK nationals (1,486 persons). Galway City has the highest proportion of travellers in the country at 2.3%, the national rate is 0.8%. In Galway East, the rate is 3.9%.

Housing

There are over 27,000 households in Galway City, with 10,390 of these households in rented accommodation. 77.4% of households live in houses or bungalows while a further 22.5% lived in apartments, flats or bedsits. Galway East has the largest percentage of residential houses built since 2000 (37%), Galway Central has the largest percentage of residential houses built pre-1970 (26%). The vacancy housing ratio in Galway City is 11.2%, lower than the State (14.5%) and Galway County (19.4%). Galway City Council maintain 485 tenancies under the Rental Accommodation Scheme and 119 tenancies under Long Term Leasing Schemes. At ED level, the highest concentrations of local authority housing is found in Wellpark (23.2%), Ballybane (18.7%) and Newcastle (18.4%), but these are still low levels compared to other towns and cities. In September 2015, there were 4583 households on the Galway City Council social housing waiting list, with the majority of demand (circa 80%) for 1 and 2 bedroom accommodation.

Language

Galway city and its suburbs has the highest rate of Irish speakers in a city area (44.2%), followed by Cork city and suburbs (44%). County Galway has the highest rate of Irish speakers in the country at 51%. 13,798 persons, representing 18.3% of the population, speak a language other than Irish or English at home. Of these, 2,020 could not speak English well or at all. Polish is the most common foreign language spoken at home with 4,070 speakers.

Education

There has been a continuous improvement in the level of education amongst the adult population in Galway City over the past 25 years.

According to Census data, the average age at which education ceased in Galway City is 21 years, the oldest in the State. The proportion of Galway City's population with third-level education has grown from 25.2% in 1991 to 45.0% in 2011, which is the second highest proportion pertaining to any local authority area. The proportion of people with primary education only in Galway City has decreased from 23.5% in 1991 to 9.9% in 2011 (national rate is 16.0%). There remains a small number of EDs where slightly higher proportions of the adult population have primary education only. These are Newcastle (28.8%), Shantalla (26.5%) and Mervue (20.7%).

Galway City has a well educated population

Affluence/Deprivation

Like any other part of the country, Galway City has been massively affected by the economic downturn after 2008, reflected in the drop in the absolute Deprivation Score (Haase and Pratschke, 2012) from 3.0 in 2006 to -1.9 in 2011. This, however, ranks the city as the third most affluent local authority area in Ireland. While none of Galway city's EDs fall within the Pobal HP Deprivation bands of Disadvantaged, Very Disadvantaged or Extremely Disadvantaged, a number of EDs are below the national average including Newcastle (-7.0), Mervue (-5.4) and Shantalla (-4.6). In addition, small area statistics show a large number of areas that do fall within the Disadvantaged band with Deprivation Scores, between -10 and -20. In total, there are 28 small areas classified as Disadvantaged in Galway city, with 10 of these being in Ballybane.

Health/Wellbeing

Across all national Gateways, Galway residents are most likely to agree that their area is an attractive and enjoyable place to live and work. Galway is average or below average for the four main causes of mortality and suicide (Galway Gateway Report, 2013). Primary health care (represented by GPs per capita) is higher than average in the city. Using the Years of Potential Life Lost (YPLL) indicator as a mortality measure, Galway recorded the lowest (best) rate of all Gateways at 48.38 per 1000, as opposed to the national Gateway average of 66.63. Galway is the only area in Ireland with a major urban centre that comes in the bottom half of the country's crime rankings at 13th on the list. It consistently records below average levels for most categories of offences. The overall number of recorded crimes in Galway has fallen by 28% since 2008, one of the largest reductions in the country. This is supported by the Gateway Hub Development Index (2012) that reports a lower than average crime rate in Galway compared to the other 8 Gateway Hubs.

Commuting

In the local electoral areas of Galway East and Galway West, the main form of commute for people to work or to school is as car driver, whereas in Galway central the main form of commute is by foot or bicycle. 3% of people in Galway City have a journey time of over an hour to their place of work or study. 41% of people living in Galway Central have a journey time of less than 15 minutes to their place of work or study. 32% of households have two or more cars.

Employment

In 2011, there were 38,791 persons aged 15 years and over in the labour force in Galway City and, of these, 81.4% (31,557 persons) were at work. Of the 24,245 persons aged 15 years and over who were outside the labour force, 46.4% were students, 16.4% were looking after the home/family and 26.3% were retired. The unemployment rate for Galway City in 2011 was 18.6%. Unemployment rates in individual EDs reached levels well above those prevailing county wide, and were highest in Newcastle (33.6% male, 23.3% female), followed by Dangan (28.0% male, 17.6% female), Ballybaan (26.0% male, 19.4% female), Shantalla (28.3% male, 15.8 female) and Menlough (24.8% male, 17.9% female). There were 8,329 people on the Live Register in September 2015. 974 of these, representing 11.7%, were under 25. This is the lowest rate in over 6 years.

Social Class

In Galway City, the proportion in the professional classes (34.7%) and the proportion in the lower skilled professions (18.2%) closely resemble the national average class composition. Differences in the social class composition within the city reflect those of educational attainment, with Knocknacarragh having the highest composition (62.0% professionals, 5.6% semi- and unskilled manual classes), and Newcastle having the lowest (20.1% professionals, 23.6% manual classes).

“Richness of culture and the natural environment, coupled with diversified sectors, are key elements of place-based innovation and they are key assets for future development in Galway.”

A Local Economic & Community Plan for Galway City

Context

Local authorities, nationally, are recognised as key drivers for stimulating and enabling enterprise and innovation in local regions, as acknowledged in the Local Government Sectoral Strategy to Support Economic Recovery and Jobs (2012) and the Putting People First - Action Programme for Effective Local Government (2012). Recent and ongoing alignment processes have resulted in an expanded role for local authorities, beyond their traditional functions and includes economic development and promotion “as a focal point for local development, in collaboration with other agencies.” Recent developments include the integration of the Local Enterprise Office (LEO) within local authorities, the establishment of Local Community Development Committees (LCDCs) and the formation of Economic and Enterprise Development Strategic Policy Committees (SPCs) within each local authority area, on a statutory basis.

As part of the new leadership role, assigned to local authorities under the Local Government Reform Act 2014, Galway City Council now has the primary responsibility for leading economic, social and community development in the city. A key purpose of local government is to promote the well-being and quality of life of the public and communities. This Local Economic and Community Plan (LECP) for Galway City was developed in line with this, as directed by Section 66 of the Local Government Act 2001 as amended by section 44 of the Local Government Reform Act 2014.

This Local Economic and Community Plan (LECP) is for a six year period and it sets out objectives and actions to promote and support economic development and to promote and support local and community development in Galway City. Delivery of the LECP actions will be the role of the relevant public bodies and agencies, including Galway City Council itself, the Local Enterprise Office (LEO), Galway City Partnership, Galway City Community Network, organisations such as the Galway Roscommon Education and Training Board, TUSLA the Child and Family Agency, the HSE, the Department of Social Protection, Galway Chamber of Commerce, Galway Council of Trade Unions, the higher education institutions, as well as non-public agencies including voluntary organisations and community-based organisations across Galway City.

The community element was prepared by the Local Community Development Committee (LCDC) and the economic element was prepared by the Local Authority, through the Economic Development Strategic Policy Committee (SPC). Both elements were integrated into this final Local Economic and Community Plan (LECP) through the work of an Advisory Steering Group, see Appendix I for more details.

The LECP is about identifying gaps and delivering positive step changes that will deliver the economic and social consolidation and enhancement of Galway City. The focus of the plan is on collaboration and inter-agency work, with an emphasis on clear and measurable actions that add value to the city. Annual action plans will be developed, based on the strategic objectives and actions outlined in the LECP, that will clearly reflect this proposed added value.

Guiding principles of the LECP

The Local Economic and Community Plan (LECP) is underpinned by a number of guiding principles which reflect how the European Commission wishes to see Europe grow and develop in a smart, inclusive, sustainable manner by 2020.

These guiding principles are:

- The promotion and main-streaming of equality.
- Sustainability – Promoting a more resource efficient, green and more inclusive economy.
- Maximising returns by cooperation, collaboration and avoiding duplication.
- Participative Planning – ensuring meaningful community participation and consultation in the planning process.
- Community consultation and engagement.
- Community development principles – addressing social exclusion and providing supports for the most marginalised.
- Accessibility and ownership – written in a straight forward style.

In addition, the Galway City LECP undertakes to promote social inclusion by tackling social exclusion, as it is defined in the Irish Government's National Action Plan for Social Inclusion 2007–2016 as follows:

“People are living in poverty if their income and resources (material, cultural and social) are so inadequate as to preclude them from having a standard of living which is regarded as acceptable by Irish society generally. As a result of inadequate income and resources people may be excluded and marginalised from participating in activities which are considered the norm for other people in society”

The promotion of actions that are socially inclusive of all will mean a restatement of the Galway City Intercultural Strategy which supports creating the conditions for interaction, equality of opportunity and outcome, understanding and respect. This approach embraces the concept that ‘one size does not fit all’, and that by planning for and accommodating cultural diversity, everyone will benefit from the process.

The LECP is also influenced by the Equality and Human Rights Statement of the Local Community Development Committee (LCDC) which states that “the LCDC promotes an environment which is fair, transparent and welcoming for all individuals and organisations – employees, service users and elected members. The LCDC undertakes to have due regard to the need to eliminate discrimination; advance equality of opportunity; foster good relation when making decisions; developing and implementing policies”.

Overview of existing strategies

The LECP is influenced by a hierarchy of international, national, regional and local level plans, strategies and legislation. Consideration was given to these during the preparation of the LECP and a comprehensive list of the relevant documents is contained in Appendix III.

The Galway City LECP must be consistent with the core strategies of the Galway City Development Plan 2011-2017. The LECP must also be consistent with the Regional Planning Guidelines for the West Region 2010-2022 and, subsequently, with the Regional Spatial and Economic Strategies (RSEs) to be prepared by the Regional Assemblies and a new National Planning Framework which, it is envisaged, will replace the National Spatial Strategy.

Core Strategies of the City Development Plan (2011-2017)

- Promote balanced and sustainable economic development that will enable Galway City to fulfil its role as a National Gateway and a Regional Centre, providing sufficient employment opportunities and appropriate services.
- Use the role of the Gateway to harness the strengths and maximise the economic development of the region.
- Provide for a built and natural environment that is of high quality and that contributes to providing a good quality of life for residents and visitors and affords sustainable transportation opportunities.
- Promote social inclusion in accordance with the National Anti-Poverty Strategy 2007 and the National Action Plan for Social Inclusion 2007-2016 and aim to reduce and ultimately eliminate poverty levels in accordance with national targets.
- Facilitate the achievement of the goals contained in the Galway CDB Strategy Gaillimh Beo agus Bríomhar 2002-2012.
- Promote the reduction of greenhouse gas emissions through proactive measures in line with EU commitments to tackle climate change.

As part of the monitoring and implementation phase of the LECP, all existing and emerging local strategies and plans will be mapped and their actions linked to ensure consistency and complementarity with national policy and the overall vision for Galway City.

Public consultation

Participative planning through meaningful community participation and consultation is one of the guiding principles that underpins the LECP. This approach will be developed further during the lifetime of the LECP and progress will be measured as part of the monitoring and implementation phase of the LECP process.

To date, the consultation process included a number of steps as follows:

- Consultation meetings with members of the LCDC and SPC.
- Individual meetings with representatives of key stakeholder groups.
- Consultation documents and questionnaires were prepared and circulated to agencies and community groups informing them on the LCDC, the LECP and inviting feedback, input and comments from each group.
- Radio and print media and advertising was used to engage the citizen.
- Consultation events for other strategies and plans were attended, questionnaires were distributed and submissions were requested.
- LECP consultation events consisting of presentations, questions and answers session and facilitated workshops were held and attended by stakeholder and community groups.
- An Open Day was held and one-on-one meetings were facilitated in City Hall for members of the public.

Links were made with other consultation processes on-going in the city, including the Galway 2020 European Capital of Culture Bid, to ensure that all information relevant to the LECP, from whatever source, was taken into account.

A directory of all submissions received through the public consultation phase was compiled. These submissions, which include general commentary as well as defined actions, will be used throughout the lifetime of the LECP to develop annual action plans based on the high level goals, objectives and actions outlined in this document.

Strategic Environmental Assessment/Habitats Directive Assessment

Under the European Communities (Environmental Assessment of Certain Plans and Programmes) Regulations 2004 -2011, the local authority is obliged to carry out a screening assessment for environmental effects arising from the implementation of the objectives and actions contained in the LECP. Due consideration has been given to SEA in the preparation of the Plan and the SEA Screening Statement should be read in conjunction with this Plan.

The EU Habitats Directive was transposed into Irish law by the European Communities (Natural Habitats) Regulations, 1997 as amended. Under this Directive, the local authority is obliged to carry out an appropriate assessment of the ecological implications of the Plan on the Natura 2000 sites within Galway City as part of the LECP process. Natura 2000 sites consist of Special Areas of Conservation (SACs) and Special Protection Areas (SPAs) and provide for the protection of Europe's most valuable and threatened species and habitats. An AA screening has been carried out on the LECP.

A Vision for Galway City

Vision Statement

A vision for Galway City and the LECP became clear during the consultation phase, as well as through the research and socio-economic analysis phases.

“That Galway will be a successful City Region with a creative, inclusive and innovative *ecosystem in place to ensure its sustainable development into the future.”

High Level Goals for Galway City

The Galway City LECP is based on five high level goals that were identified during the plan's preparation process. The high level goals are in line with the vision outlined above and are representative of a collective vision for Galway City by all stakeholders.

Galway City:

1. a world-class, creative city region
2. an innovative city
3. an equal and inclusive city
4. a sustainable, resilient urban environment that is the regional capital of the West
5. a city that promotes the health and well-being of all its people

*ecosystem: a complex network or interconnected system

A prominent church tower with a pointed roof is visible on the right. The city is situated along a dark, rocky shoreline. In the foreground, a body of water reflects the city lights, creating a shimmering effect. A dark, modern-looking structure, possibly a pier or a piece of art, stands in the water. The sky is dark with some light clouds. A large, semi-transparent red triangle is overlaid on the left side of the image, pointing towards the center. The title text is centered over the image, partially overlapping the red triangle and the city lights.

An Action Plan for Galway City

Overview

Key actions and initiatives were agreed for each of the high level goals to strengthen and develop the economic and community dimensions of Galway City over the next six years. The actions reflect the key priorities and policy areas, as agreed by those consulted, and the guiding principles of the LECP. The two elements of the plan, economic and community, are presented together ensuring a coordinated delivery of actions for both economic and local/community development.

The main aim of the LECP is to improve the well-being of the people and economy of Galway City through enhanced strategic planning, better targeting and co-ordination of resources and more meaningful impacts for local communities. No single agency or organisation has the capacity to deliver on these goals acting alone. As such, the commitment by all local organisations with a role in the promotion of local and community development will be central to the successful implementation of the plan. The emphasis throughout is on collaboration and partnership. The LECP provides a framework for all organisations in Galway City to link their own strategies and plans. It allows for combined investment and resources to achieve common agreed objectives. It allows integration between social and economic planning to assist in the development of sustainable communities with strong local economies.

As part of the implementation phase of the LECP, the actions outlined in this document will be further defined and elaborated upon. Annual action plans containing clear, measurable actions and outcomes will be developed through inter-agency discussions and further public consultation.

The LECP represents the beginning of a process of inter-agency collaboration and will infuse a deliberate innovative approach to socio-economic development planning in Galway City.

Economic Development

The economic elements of the LECP were formulated following consultation with key stakeholders, a review of relevant strategies and plans and analysis of the socio-economic profile of Galway City. The LECP will help promote and support economic development in Galway City over the next six years. The LECP is part of the wider economic role of local government and provides a framework within which Galway City Council can develop and pursue its economic development role.

Galway is well positioned economically to accommodate further growth. Many of the objectives and actions outlined in the LECP focus on creating a strong identity for Galway City by supporting and exploiting its existing and emerging strengths. Priority areas include skills, talent and innovation; entrepreneurship and start ups; scaling and growing enterprise; the environment for businesses and opportunities for sectoral development. In particular, the ability of Galway City to promote and foster indigenous business and investment in the city is a key consideration, as is the ability of the city to attract and retain inward investment.

The goals, objectives and actions outlined in the LECP reflect the key themes of People, Place and Process presented in the Galway City Statement of Strategy - Economic Sustainability 2015 - 2021. The LECP recognises that strong economic performance helps to build stronger communities and is fundamental to their welfare through greater prosperity, job creation and financial stability.

Community Development

Galway City has a long tradition of organised community activity with an array of structures and initiatives rolled out to facilitate collaborative approaches and create relevant delivery networks (Figure 1). The community element of the LECP, whilst not being prescriptive about the various actions to be taken by these different structures, can assist in developing, coordinating and implementing a coherent and integrated approach to local and community development. The LECP has identified areas of priority and opportunity and indicates the most appropriate programmes or other resources to be linked with each particular priority or opportunity area. The LECP acts as a guidance document for all of the community development groups in the city as they prepare their relevant plans and strategies.

The overall objective of the community element of the LECP is the protection and enhancement of the quality of life and well-being of communities in Galway City. A key priority is to ensure that people disadvantaged from whatever circumstance can realise their potential and participate in all aspects of life in the city. The LECP commits to strengthening the resilience of local communities to engage and have a meaningful part to play in the decision making that impacts their day-to-day lives.

The link between economic development and community development is recognised, in particular how local and community development interventions can support economic activity from the ground up, while also helping to combat social exclusion and poverty, for example, through targeted interventions to improve education, training and employment opportunities within disadvantaged or marginalised communities.

Community development and local development should be noted as two separate though complementary processes. In that context, we set out a definition of community development and local development:

Community work/community development “is a developmental activity comprised of both a task and a process. The task is the achievement of social change towards the achievement of equality, social justice and human rights and the process is the application of principles of participation, empowerment and collective decision making in a structured and co-ordinated way”. Adapted from Pobal (1999) – Community Development Strategies and Actions within the Integrated Local Development Programme, Insights No. 11. Pobal, Dublin.

Local development is defined as “The collective effort of a community to improve local, social and environmental conditions, it provides an opportunity for each of the three sectors (community, statutory agency and social partner) to act together for the benefit of the area.” ADM (1995), Integrated Local Development Handbook and referenced in SICAP requirements P19.

Goal 1. Galway. A world-class creative city region.

Creativity and culture are at the heart of life in Galway City. They are pivotal to all aspects of Galway's development as a city and as a region. Galway has a massive cultural profile and reputation, led chiefly by flagship organisations such as Galway International Arts Festival (GIAF) and Druid Theatre Company. There is also a vibrant community arts sector in Galway City and they actively engage with their local communities, empowering people to express their cultural identity through creative means. As a designated UNESCO City of Film, Galway is a member of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network. Galway is a member of the Culture21 Pilot Cities Programme and a candidate for the European Capital of Culture 2020.

The Local Economic and Community Plan recognises the integral part creativity and culture play in the economic and social sustainability of Galway City. This high level goal builds on the ambition of the 'Cultural Strategy Framework for Galway City and County 2016-2025' which aims to transform Galway into a working model of cultural sustainability, best practice and world class cultural and creative experiences.

Through the LECP, the drive to present Galway as an innovative city, with professional pride, ladders of opportunity and strong support networks, will continue.

This high level goal compliments the Action Plan for Jobs and the Enterprise Plan for Galway County and City. It is consistent with current Government policy in relation to economic development (at present the Medium Term Economic Strategy 2014 – 2020 (MTES) and Enterprise Strategy as set out in Making it Happen – Growing Enterprise for Ireland) and highlights the key role cities can play in achieving EU objectives, especially in the implementation of the Europe 2020 strategy. Monitoring and Implementation

Implementation, monitoring, evaluation and review of the LECP in relation to the objectives and actions for each high-level goal is critical. Measurement will be against a range of national, regional and local indicators and a monitoring framework is being developed.

The Galway City LECP is a living document. An action plan will be devised for each year of the LECP, commencing in 2016. These action plans will contain clear and measurable actions based on the goals and objectives in this document and will take into account the detailed submissions received through the public consultation process and up-to-date policy developments. The annual action plans will be approved by the LCDC and SPC and adopted by Galway City Council. Impact assessment will be carried out on all goals and objectives.

Responsibility for driving implementation, monitoring and reviewing the LECP rests with a number of structures including the LCDC, the Economic Development, Enterprise Support and Culture SPC and Galway City Council. The performance in implementing the plan will also be subject to the examination and report by the National Oversight Audit Committee. More information on the structure of the LCDC and the SPC is provided in Appendix I.
